Background	MTC Amey is a joint venture between MTC and Amey that is currently engaged in market development activities in the United Kingdom such as the Transforming Rehabilitation competition. The joint venture has been in place for approximately 2 years. Founded in 1981, MTC is a privately held company with its headquarters in Centerville, Utah. MTC successfully operates Job Corps, corrections, medical and international workforce development contracts, serving disadvantaged populations. MTC's track record of integrity, leadership, performance and innovation has made the organisation the US Department of Labour's largest Job Corps operator, and the third largest operator of private adult correctional services in the US. Amey is one of the UK's leading integrated public service providers, with approximately 21,000 staff across more than 200 locations. Amey deliver a wide range of services such as consultancy, design, intelligent transport management and facilities maintenance. Amey's approach is based on true partnership, supporting the delivery of the highest public policy objectives in education and transport, social cohesion and community development. Business divisions include Built Environment, Government, Consulting and Rail and Utilities and Defence.
Objective	MTC Amey bring a fresh approach to the social justice market based on collaboration and unrivalled capacity and decades of experience. Through NOMS CFO, we want to provide offenders with the opportunity to improve their lives and facilitate their successful integration into local communities, through implementing services and meaningful programmes of support that deliver a step change in reducing offending and reoffending.
